The Great Encounter

A JOURNEY OF INITIATION AND DISCOVERY
IN THE SACRED MOUNTAINS OF PERU.
11 TO 22 OF OCTOBER 2019

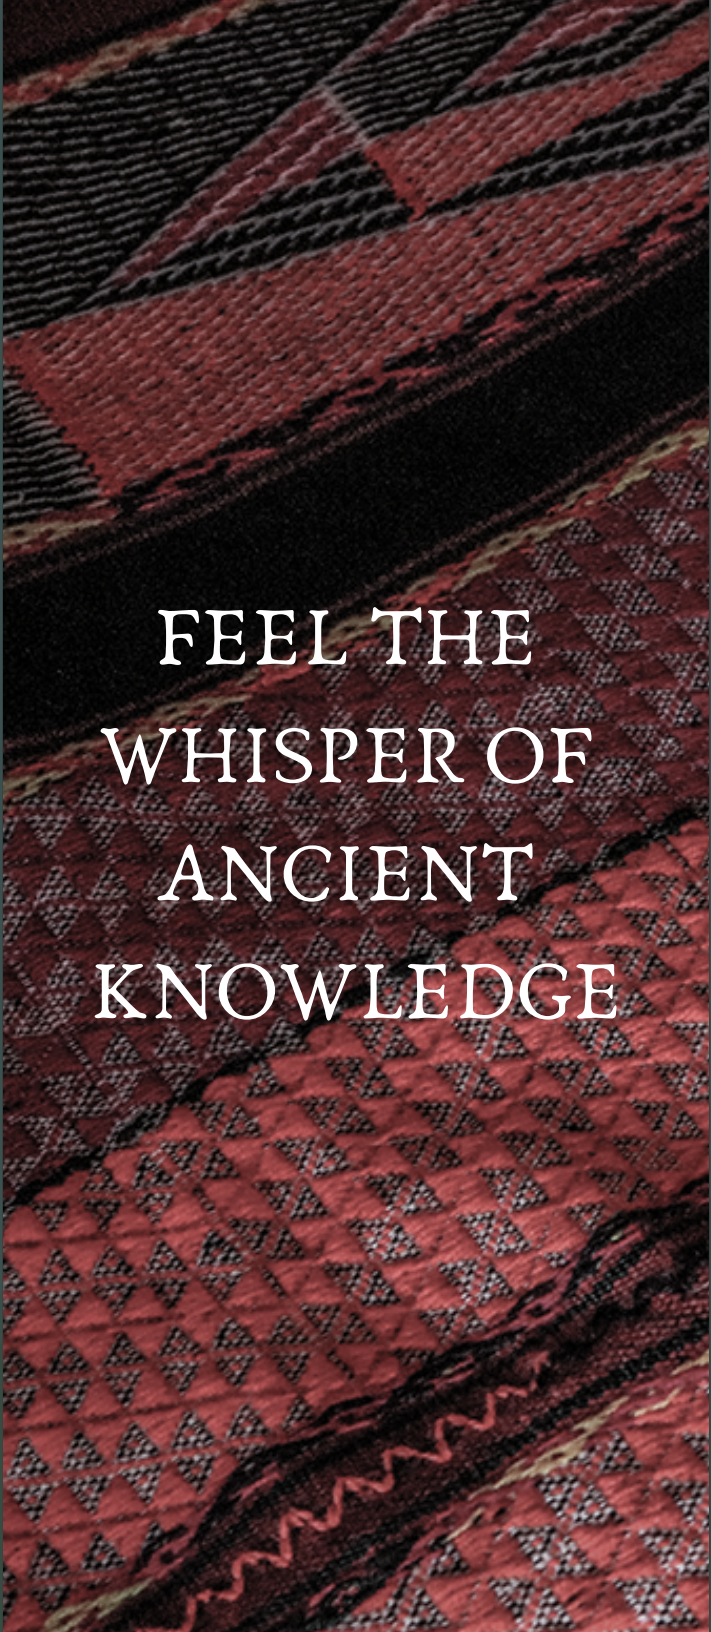

JOURNEY INTO THE SACRED LAND OF THE INKAS

Receive the Karpays, the original initiation and empowerment rituals of the peoples of Q'ero and Ausangate in the sacred temples and mountains of Cusco, Peru.

For the native people of the Andes, the descendants of the Inka civilization, all aspects of the world in which we live are endowed with life and consciousness. Native people of the Andes inhabit a universe full of life, visible and invisible, from the stars in the night sky, to the sun and moon, to the spirits of sacred places, and the spirits of our ancestors. Grounded in this vision of the cosmos, Andean people organize their lives according to the principle of "Ayllu", a concept of community made up not only of human beings, but also of all other beings with whom we share our existence, from rocks and rivers to animals and plants. In the Ayllu, the interconnectedness of all beings forms a living, vibrant unity, no single element of which is greater or lesser than any other, all of them necessary for the symbiotic functioning of this intricate web of life.

FEEL THE WHISPER OF ANCIENT KNOWLEDGE

Based in this view of reality, the Andeans deeply understand the following principals of life:

Ayni (reciprocity, balance)

Munay (love, desire, transformation, beauty)

Yachay (knowledge, wisdom, co-creation)

Llankay (ritual and ceremony)

Through ceremony and ritual, as well as experiential teachings, all passed down for centuries from the Inca spiritual masters, you will explore and practice all these concepts, while guided by native masters from the highest levels of this tradition.

THE ANDEAN MASTERS

They are humble people with a big smile and speak tenderly. Yet, the Andean masters keep alive an ancient sacred wisdom they share with those ready to embark upon this path.

With a deep understanding of how the forces of nature work, they have conversed with them for millenia, first to survive the arid and cold Andes, and then to thrive energetically, becoming "chakaruna" bridges between the seen and unseen worlds.

Their power lies in a big gratitude to the feminine and masculine forces of the Cosmos, and a deep commitment to their job as healers and protectors of their communities.

In this Journey you will be working with masters from different parts of Cusco, and through different rituals we will heal and improve the quality of our energy by receiving the blessings of this land.

The altomisayoq, high priest, Don Martin Quispe his wife Isábila Apaza, their son Lorenzo Ccapa and his wife Zenobia Condori will be present alongside other masters.

THE KARPAY

A Karpay is an ancestral Andean initiation ritual. It is a practice of empowerment that through a transmission of energy from teacher to student, connects the latter with the living energies of Nature.

The master with his experience channels the power of Mother Earth, the Guiding Spirits of the mountains, and of the water, the sun and the moon, the lineages of his previous masters, etc.

Thus, we receive Karpays to integrate and grow these connections with the living world around us, and to enhance our experience as human and energetic beings.

your guide AMALIA ESCOBAR GALPERT

Amalia Escobar Galpert was raised on a hacienda in the mountains of Peru, among the native descendants of the Inca people. She learned their ways and traditions, and was allowed to take part in their ceremonies and rituals. During her career as an adventure guide and tour leader in the Andes and the Amazon, she apprenticed for 10 years with a native healer (curandero) of the Wachipayre people, Alejandro Jahuanchi. She has given talks throughout the United States, at universities, cultural organizations, and the White House (in 1995). She has received initiations in the wisdom tradition of the Q'ero people, the keepers of the most sacred Inca teachings. She speaks fluent English, Spanish, and Quechua. She lives with her family on the Central Coast of California and travels frequently to her native country.

FRANCISCO VICTORIA your guide

Francisco Victoria is a young master practicing and sharing the Andean Spiritual Tradition to people from all over the world.

He visited Peru and fell in love with the powerful yet humble ways of the Andean energy masters, and decided to stay.

Along his Peruvian wife Yandy he founded "Karpay", and together they have organized several retreats, trips, online courses and workshops, working with some of the most recognized Andean masters such as Don Juan Nuñez del Prado, Don Américo Yabar and Altomisayoq Don Martin Quispe. Francisco shares his knowledge with passion and directness, and welcomes you into the sacred land that blessed his heart, family and life.

PLEASE TAKE INTO ACCOUNT:

-Cusco city is at an altitude of 3300 meters above sea level (almost 11.000 feet). This means your body needs a time to adapt. We always recommend that passengers arrive at least a day prior to the start of the program. Otherwise arrive early in the morning of the first day.

-Your first day in Cusco, take it easy! Slow walks and soft meals, and a light dinner not past 6 pm. Hotels generally offer a coca leaf tea that will help you.

-Same goes for Ausangate, at 4300 mts above sea level (14.000 feet). First night in the mountain you may experience difficulty breathing or a bit of insomnia. Don't worry too much, it's part of the experience.

-The Ausangate lodge is in a community's family humble yet cozy house, you will be staying in bedrooms shared by up to 6 fellow travelers.

-In Cusco and Ausangate we will have hikes from 10 mins up to 2:30 hours. Let us know if you have any concerns.

-Please report any medical condition you have.
